

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

FOREWORD

A general list of children's books for home reading has long been needed. A beginning was made in 1915-16 by the Elementary School Committee of the Library Section of the National Education Association, under the chairmanship of Miss Effie L. Power. That earlier compilation is the basis of the present list. The original plan of providing an annotated list of approximately one thousand standard children's books, including classics, which would be useful in buying for the first nine grades, has been followed.

The present list has been prepared with the needs of both teacher and librarian in mind. It does not assume to take the place of the Children's Catalog compiled by Miss Bacon or the Pittsburgh Catalogue of Children's Books, which have been helpful in its preparation.

Including as it does only books for general reading, the list must be supplemented with titles which meet local school needs. No text books as such are included. For the convenience of teachers, a list of sixty reference books useful for the first nine grades has been added.

As the limits and character of the list prevented a general rounding out of the subject material, the committee provided no subject index, but the American Library Association editorial staff has compiled the one included for such assistance as it will give, basing the work, by special permission, on the subject index section of the Pittsburgh Catalogue of Children's Books.

In the belief that no library, however modest in size, is complete without a few really artistic books, some of the more expensive editions illustrated by artists who appeal to young people have been included. Many children have no opportunity in their daily lives to see beauty in line and color. A few finely illustrated editions provide this beauty related to what is fine and lasting in literature.

It will be noticed that there are three lists: Section A, picture books and easy reading books for children in grades one, two and three; Section B, titles for fourth, fifth and sixth grade pupils; Section C for seventh, eighth and ninth grade children. In order to place each book more accurately, all the grades in which it may be used are designated after the individual entry.

A list is given below of the sources which were consulted for annotations.

The selection of titles was made by members of the Elementary School Library Committee of the National Education Association for the years 1919-20 and 1920-21.

The members of this committee were:

MISS ANNIE S. CUTTER, Head of School Department, Cleveland Public Library, Chairman.

MISS JASMINE BRITTON, Board of Education, Library Division, Los Angeles, California.

MISS NINA C. BROTHERTON, Principal, Carnegie Library School, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

MISS ANNE EATON, Librarian, Lincoln School Library, New York City.

MR. ORTON LOWE, Director of English, Department of Public Instruction, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.

The committee is indebted to Miss Effie L. Power, Director of Work with Children, Cleveland Public Library, for advice in the final revision, and to Miss Bertha Hatch, Librarian-Teacher, Cleveland School of Education, for much valuable assistance in the general preparation of the list.
